6:30pm - ?

The Source in Albuquerque invites you to a community open house where we are creating the space to connect, network and participate in a conversation about what it takes to consciously create community and connection.

Our conversational dialog will be led by peak performance coach and National Director of the non-profit leadership training program, Sustainable Global Leadership Alliance. Together we will explore how we define community, how we are stopped by our natural biases and distrust of others, and what we each see as possibilities to expand and truly embrace a new definition of consciously creating our communities based on what we declare.

Doors open at 6:30 pm, the dialog starts at 7 and is participatory in nature... consider it an exploration on consciousness and creation. Planned to go for a little over an hour there will be the opportunity to network after with drumming and celebration until ?

Cost: FREE!
